

Analyzing the External Environment of the Firm

True / False Questions

1. Environmental scanning and competitor intelligence provide important inputs for forecasting activities.

True False

2. A hard trend is something that might happen and for which the probability that it might happen can be estimated.

True False

3. A soft trend is a projection based on measureable facts, events, or objects. It is something that will happen.

True False

4. The aging of the population is a hard trend.

True False

5. A number of choices government officials make are based on projections about future interest rates. The projections are soft trends.

True False

6. Environmental monitoring deals with tracking changes in environmental trends that are often uncovered during the environmental scanning process.

True False

7. Competitor Intelligence (CI) is a tool that can provide management with early warnings about both threats and opportunities.

True False

8. Competitive intelligence generally does not benefit very much from gathering information on competitors from sources in the public domain.

True False

9. Even with all of the advances in recent years, forecasting is typically considered more of an art than a science and it is of little use in generating accurate predictions.

True False

10. Scenario planning is usually concerned with short-term forecasts.

True False

11. The strengths and weaknesses of a SWOT analysis refer to the external conditions of the firm.

True False

12. The opportunities and threats of a SWOT analysis refer to the internal conditions of the firm.

True False

13. To understand the business environment of a particular firm, you need to analyze both the general environment and the firm industry and competitive environment.

True False

14. Although changes in the general environment may often adversely or favorably impact a firm, they seldom alter an entire industry.

True False

15. The impact of a demographic trend varies across industries.

True False

16. A major sociocultural trend in the United States is the increased educational attainment by women.

True False

17. Technological innovations can create entirely new industries and alter the boundaries of industries.

True False

18. There is generally a weak relationship between equity markets (e.g., New York Stock Exchange) and economic indicators.

True False

19. The Internet is a leading component in the rising emergence of digital technology.

True False

20. Crowdsourcing is used by companies to develop products.

True False

21. The Porter Five-Forces model is designed to help us understand how social attitudes and cultural values impact U.S. businesses.

True False

22. The five-forces model helps to determine both the nature of competition in an industry and the profit potential for the industry.

True False

23. In some industries, high switching costs can act as an important barrier to entry.

True False

24. Industries characterized by high economies of scale typically attract fewer new entrants.

True False

25. The power of a buyer group is increased if the buyer group has less concentration than the supplier group.

True False

26. Buyer power tends to be higher if suppliers provide undifferentiated or standard products.

True False

27. Supplier power tends to be highest in industries where products are vital to buyers, where switching from one supplier to another is very costly, and where there are many suppliers.

True False

28. The power of suppliers will be enhanced if they are able to maintain a credible threat of forward integration.

True False

29. The more attractive the price/performance ratio of substitute products, the tighter it constrains the ability of an industry to charge high prices.

True False

30. Rivalry is most intense when there are high exit barriers and high industry growth.

True False

31. Rivalry will be most intense when there is a lack of differentiation or switching costs.

True False

32. In most industries, new entrants will be a bigger threat because the Internet lowers entry barriers.

True False

33. The Internet and digital technologies suppress the bargaining power of buyers by providing them with more information to make buying decisions.

True False

34. Switching costs for an end user are likely to be much higher because of the Internet.

True False

35. Because of the Internet and digital technologies, it is very difficult for suppliers to create purchasing techniques that lower switching costs.

True False

36. Reintermediation is responsible for an overall reduction in business opportunities.

True False

37. The Internet heightens the threat of substitutes because it creates new ways to accomplish the same task.

True False

38. Five-Forces analysis implicitly assumes a zero-sum game, a perspective that can be short-sighted.

True False

39. Michael Porter's Five-Forces Analysis is a dynamic tool for analyzing industry attractiveness.

True False

40. Complement products typically have no impact on the value of products and services of the firm.

True False

41. Competition tends to be more intense among firms within a strategic group than between strategic groups.

True False

42. The same environmental trend or event may have a very different impact on different strategic groups within the same industry.

True False

43. The use of the strategic group concept is generally not helpful in charting the future directions of the strategies of a firm.

True False

44. The strategic groups in the worldwide automobile industry have been very stable and unchanging in recent years.

True False

Multiple Choice Questions

45. Two of the key inputs to developing forecasts discussed in the text are:
- A. environmental scanning and stakeholder identification.
 - B. environmental scanning and competitor intelligence.
 - C. assessing internal strengths and environmental scanning.
 - D. environmental scanning and a SWOT analysis.
46. _____ tracks the evolution of environmental trends, sequences of events, or streams of activities.
- A. Environmental scanning
 - B. Environmental monitoring
 - C. Environmental surveying
 - D. Competitive intelligence
47. Taking advantage of the increasing penetration of personal computers in American homes, the Mayo Clinic transformed itself as a provider of health-related knowledge and expertise. It took advantage of the _____ trends of the _____ in the prices of PCs and the _____ presence of PCs in virtually every home in the U.S.
- A. soft; increase; increasing
 - B. soft; decrease; decreasing
 - C. hard; decrease; decreasing
 - D. hard; decrease; increasing

48. Scanning the general environment would identify information on _____.

- A. substitute goods
- B. the aging population and ethnic shifts
- C. customer and firm bargaining power
- D. competitive rivalry

49. Which of the following is not an example of corporate competitive analysis?

- A. Banks tracking home loans
- B. Airlines changing hundreds of fares daily in response to competitor tactics
- C. Car manufacturers offering sales incentives based on rival offers
- D. Consumers comparing product offers online

50. Gathering competitive intelligence _____.

- A. is good business practice
- B. is illegal
- C. is considered unethical
- D. minimizes the need to obtain information in the public domain

51. Environmental forecasting does not involve plausible projections about the _____ of environmental change.

- A. direction
- B. scope
- C. speed
- D. lack of intensity

52. A danger of forecasting discussed in the text is that _____.

- A. in most cases, the expense of collecting the necessary data exceeds the benefit
- B. the retrospective nature of forecasting provides little information about the future
- C. managers may view uncertainty as black and white while ignoring important gray areas
- D. it can create legal problems for the firm if regulators discover the company is making forecasts

53. PPG Industries, the Pittsburgh-based manufacturer of paints, coatings, optical products, specialty materials, chemicals, glass, and fiber glass suffered serious failures in 1986 and 1987 when it attempted to diversify its offers. It used a technique to help it identify possible future strategies. What was it?

- A. crowdsourcing
- B. scenario analysis
- C. competitive intelligence
- D. monitoring

54. SWOT analysis is a framework for analyzing the internal and external environment of a company. It consists of strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. According to a SWOT analysis, which of the following is not an aspect that the strategy of the firm must follow?

- A. build on its weaknesses
- B. remedy the weaknesses or work around them
- C. take advantage of the opportunities presented by the environment
- D. protect the firm from the threats

55. The aging of the population, changes in ethnic composition, and effects of the baby boom are _____.

- A. macroeconomic changes
- B. demographic changes
- C. global changes
- D. sociocultural changes

56. Larger numbers of women entering the work force since the early 1970s is an example of _____.

- A. demographic changes
- B. political and legal environmental changes
- C. sociocultural changes
- D. technological developments

57. Emerging sociocultural changes in the environment include _____.

- A. changes in the ethnic composition
- B. the increasing educational attainment of women in the past decade
- C. progressively less disposable income by consumers
- D. changes in the geographic distribution of the population

58. All of the following are important elements of the political/legal segment of the general environment EXCEPT:

- A. the deregulation of utilities
- B. the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)
- C. the increased use of Internet technology
- D. increases in the federally mandated minimum wage

59. Which of the following would be considered part of a firm's general environment?

- A. decreased entry barriers
- B. higher unemployment rates
- C. increased bargaining power of the firm's suppliers
- D. increased competitive intensity

60. Interest-rate increases have a _____ impact on the residential home construction industry and a _____ effect on industries that produce consumer necessities such as prescription drugs or basic grocery items.
- A. positive; negligible
 - B. negative; negligible
 - C. negative; positive
 - D. positive; negative
61. In the general environment, many relationships exist among the various elements. General environmental trends can have positive and negative impacts on various industries. For example, the aging population might have a _____ impact on the health care industry and a _____ impact on the baby product industry. These are called _____ impacts.
- A. negative; positive; demographic
 - B. positive; negative; technological
 - C. negative; positive; sociocultural
 - D. positive; negative; demographic
62. Which is considered a force in the Five-Forces model?
- A. increased deregulation in an industry
 - B. the threat of government intervention
 - C. rivalry among competing firms
 - D. recent technological innovation

63. Which of the following firms would likely pose the least competitive threat?
- A. a firm in the same industry and in the same strategic group
 - B. a firm that produces substitute goods to your product line
 - C. a competitor to your product where a high switching cost exists
 - D. a firm in the same industry and in the nearest strategic group looking to join your group
64. The threat of new entrants is high when there are _____.
- A. low economies of scale
 - B. high capital requirements
 - C. high switching costs
 - D. high differentiation among competitors products and services
65. Product differentiation by incumbents act as an entry barrier because _____.
- A. new entrants cannot differentiate their products
 - B. incumbents will take legal action if new entrants do not differentiate their products
 - C. new entrants will have to spend heavily to overcome existing customer loyalties
 - D. it helps a firm to derive greater economies of scale
66. Which of the following would be an entry barrier?
- A. large economies of scale
 - B. low switching costs
 - C. easy access to raw materials
 - D. low capital requirements

67. An automobile manufacturer acquires a rental car company. This is an example of _____.

- A. backward integration
- B. economies of scale
- C. forward integration
- D. product differentiation

68. The bargaining power of the buyer is greater than that of the supplier when _____.

- A. volume of purchase is low
- B. threat of backward integration by buyers is low
- C. cost savings from the supplier's product are minimal
- D. the buyer's profit margin is low

69. Buyer power will be greater when _____.

- A. the products purchased are highly differentiated
- B. there are high switching costs
- C. the industry product is very important to the quality of the buyer end products or services
- D. it is concentrated or when a buyer group purchases large volumes relative to seller sales

70. The bargaining power of suppliers increases as _____.

- A. more suppliers enter the market
- B. importance of buyers to supplier group increases
- C. switching costs for buyers decrease
- D. threat of forward integration by suppliers increases

71. New communication technology can impact seemingly unrelated industries such as the airline industry. This would be an example of a _____.

- A. threat of entry
- B. backward integration
- C. forward integration
- D. threat of substitute products

72. The bargaining power of suppliers is enhanced under the following market condition:

- A. no threat of forward integration
- B. low differentiation of the supplier products
- C. greater availability of substitute products
- D. dominance by a few suppliers

73. In the Five-Forces model, conditions under which a supplier group can be powerful include all the following EXCEPT:

- A. lack of importance of the buyer to the supplier group
- B. high differentiation by the supplier
- C. dominance by a few suppliers
- D. readily available substitute products

74. A supplier group would be most powerful when _____.

- A. there are many suppliers
- B. there are few substitute products
- C. there is a low differentiation of products supplied
- D. there is a high threat of backward integration by the buyers

75. Threat of substitute products comes from _____.

- A. other companies in the same industry
- B. foreign companies which can use cheap labor in their countries
- C. firms in other industries that produce products or services that satisfy the same customer need
- D. new companies in the same industry

76. Firms would be most likely to face intense rivalry with competitors when they _____.

- A. are in a high growth industry with low fixed costs
- B. are in a protected market
- C. have high fixed costs
- D. have low exit barriers for easy transition to another industry

77. The most intense rivalry results from _____.

- A. numerous equally balanced competitors, slow industry growth, high fixed or storage costs
- B. few competitors, slow industry growth, lack of differentiation, high fixed or storage costs
- C. numerous equally balanced competitors, manufacturing capacity increases only in large increments, low exit barriers
- D. a high level of differentiation

78. Exit barriers do not arise from _____.

- A. specialized assets with no alternative use
- B. governmental and social pressures
- C. strategic interrelationships with other business units within the same company
- D. flexible costs of exit

79. Because the Internet lowers barriers to entry in most industries, it _____.

- A. decreases the threat of new entrants
- B. increases the threat of new entrants
- C. makes it easier to build customer loyalty
- D. increases supplier power

80. End users are not _____.

- A. the final consumers in a distribution channel
- B. usually the C in B2C
- C. likely to have greater bargaining power because of the Internet
- D. the first customers in a distribution channel

81. Incumbent firms may enjoy increased bargaining power because the Internet _____.

- A. focuses marketing efforts on end users
- B. diminishes the power of many distribution channel intermediaries
- C. increases channel conflict
- D. has reduced the number of wholesalers and distributors

82. Supplier power has increased because of the Internet for all of the following reasons EXCEPT:

- A. the growth of new Web-based businesses has created more outlets for suppliers to sell to
- B. some suppliers have created Web-based purchasing systems that encourage switching
- C. the process of disintermediation makes it possible for some suppliers to reach end users directly
- D. software that links buyers to a supplier's website has created rapid, low-cost order capabilities

83. In general, the threat of substitutes is heightened because the Internet _____.
- A. introduces new ways to accomplish the same task
 - B. lowers switching costs
 - C. lowers barriers to entry
 - D. increases output per unit of cost
84. How do infomediaries and consumer information websites increase the intensity of competitive rivalry?
- A. by shifting customers away from issues of price
 - B. by making competitors in cyberspace seem less equally balanced
 - C. by consolidating the marketing message that consumers use to make a purchase decision to a few key pieces of information that the selling company has little control over
 - D. by highlighting unique selling advantages of a firm
85. The value net is a game-theoretic approach that _____.
- A. extends the value chain analysis
 - B. is a way to analyze all the players in a game and analyze how their interactions affect the ability of a firm to generate and appropriate value
 - C. helps us to understand the evolution of the five forces over time
 - D. uses network analysis to understand the relationships among different companies

86. In the value net analysis, complementors are _____.

- A. firms that produce substitute products
- B. customers who compliment the company for their good products and services
- C. firms that produce products or services that have a positive impact on the value of firm products or services
- D. firms that supply critical inputs to a company

87. Strategic groups consist of _____.

- A. a group of top executives that makes strategies for a company
- B. a group of firms within an industry that follows similar strategies
- C. a group of executives drawn from different companies within an industry that makes decisions on industry standards
- D. a group of firms within an industry that decides to collude rather than compete with each other so that they can increase their profits

88. Which of the following statements about strategic groups is FALSE?

- A. Two assumptions are made: (1) no two firms are totally different, (2) no two firms are exactly the same.
- B. Strategic groupings are of little help to a firm in assessing mobility barriers that protect a group from attacks by other groups.
- C. Strategic groups help chart the future directions of firm strategies.
- D. Strategic groups are helpful in thinking through the implications of each industry trend for the group as a whole.

Essay Questions

89. Explain how competitor intelligence can be improved by gathering information about competitors in the public domain. Provide examples.

90. Discuss some of the limitations of forecasting.

91. Discuss the six segments of the general environment. Provide examples of how they might be related.

92. Explain the important barriers to entry in an industry. Provide examples.

93. Discuss and provide examples of factors that would lead to greater buyer power.

94. What are some of the factors that would cause a supplier group to become powerful? Illustrate.

95. Several factors usually interact which result in intense rivalry among competitors. Explain.

96. Address how Internet and digital technologies affect the Porter five forces.

97. Explain how the value net analysis adds to the five-forces analysis. Be sure to include examples from at least two industries.

98. What value is the strategic group concept as a tool in analyzing an industry?

99. SWOT analysis is a basic technique for analyzing firm and industry conditions. Explain the relationship between the SWOT approach to evaluating the general environment, the industry of the firm, and the competitive environment.

Chapter 02 Analyzing the External Environment of the Firm Answer Key

True / False Questions

1. Environmental scanning and competitor intelligence provide important inputs for forecasting activities.

TRUE

Three important processes (scanning, monitoring, and gathering competitive intelligence) are used to develop forecasts.

7. Competitor Intelligence (CI) is a tool that can provide management with early warnings about both threats and opportunities.

TRUE

Competitive intelligence (CI) helps firms define and understand their industry and identify strengths and weaknesses of rivals. Done properly, competitive intelligence helps a company avoid surprises by anticipating competitor moves and decreasing response time.

8. Competitive intelligence generally does not benefit very much from gathering information on competitors from sources in the public domain.

FALSE

Competitive intelligence is frequently done effectively through public sources of information. Examples are evident in daily newspapers and periodicals such as The Wall Street Journal, BusinessWeek, and Fortune. For example, banks continually track home loan, auto loan, and certificate of deposit (CD) interest rates charged by rivals. Major airlines change hundreds of fares daily in response to competitor tactics.

12. The opportunities and threats of a SWOT analysis refer to the internal conditions of the firm.

FALSE

The Opportunities and Threats are environmental conditions external to the firm. These could be factors either in the general or competitive environment. In the general environment, one might experience developments beneficial for most companies such as improving economic conditions, that lower borrowing costs or trends that benefit some companies and harm others.

13. To understand the business environment of a particular firm, you need to analyze both the general environment and the firm industry and competitive environment.

TRUE

Generally, firms compete with other firms in the same industry. An industry is composed of a set of firms that produce similar products or services, sell to similar customers, and use similar methods of production. Gathering industry information and understanding competitive dynamics among the different companies in your industry is key to successful strategic management. To understand the business environment of a particular firm, you need to analyze both the general environment and the firm industry and competitive environment.

15. The impact of a demographic trend varies across industries.

TRUE

The impact of a demographic trend, like all segments of the general environment, varies across industries. Rising levels of affluence in many developed countries bode well for brokerage services as well as for upscale pets and supplies. However, this trend may adversely affect fast-food restaurants because people can afford to dine at higher-priced restaurants.

24. Industries characterized by high economies of scale typically attract fewer new entrants.

TRUE

Economies of scale refers to spreading the costs of production over the number of units produced. The cost of a product per unit declines as the absolute volume per period increases. This deters entry by forcing the entrant to come in at a large scale and risk strong reaction from existing firms or come in at a small scale and accept a cost disadvantage. Both are undesirable options.

32. In most industries, new entrants will be a bigger threat because the Internet lowers entry barriers.

TRUE

In most industries, the threat of new entrants has increased because digital and Internet-based technologies lower barriers to entry. For example, businesses that reach customers primarily through the Internet may enjoy savings on other traditional expenses such as office rent, sales-force salaries, printing, and postage. This may encourage more entrants who, because of the lower start-up expenses, see an opportunity to capture market share by offering a product or performing a service more efficiently than existing competitors. Thus, a new cyber entrant can use the savings provided by the Internet to charge lower prices and compete on price despite the incumbent's scale advantages.

- A. build on its weaknesses
- B. remedy the weaknesses or work around them
- C. take advantage of the opportunities presented by the environment
- D. protect the firm from the threats

The general idea of SWOT analysis is that a firm's strategy must build on its strengths, remedy its weaknesses or work around them, take advantage of the opportunities presented by the environment, and protect the firm from the threats. Despite its apparent simplicity, the SWOT approach has been very popular. First, it forces managers to consider both internal and external factors simultaneously. Second, its emphasis on identifying opportunities and threats makes firms act proactively rather than reactively. Third, it raises awareness about the role of strategy in creating a match between the environmental conditions and the firm's internal strengths and weaknesses. Finally, its conceptual simplicity is achieved without sacrificing analytical rigor.

- A. are in a high growth industry with low fixed costs
- B. are in a protected market
- C. have high fixed costs
- D. have low exit barriers for easy transition to another industry

Intense rivalry is the result of several interacting factors, including the following: numerous or equally balanced competitors, slow industry growth, high fixed or storage costs, lack of differentiation or switching costs, capacity augmented in large increments, or high exit barriers.

(p. 60)

- A. specialized assets with no alternative use
- B. governmental and social pressures
- C. strategic interrelationships with other business units within the same company
- D. flexible costs of exit

Exit barriers are economic, strategic, and emotional factors that keep firms competing even though they may be earning low or negative returns on their investments. Some exit barriers are specialized assets, fixed costs of exit, strategic interrelationships (e.g., relationships between the business units and others within a company in terms of image, marketing, shared facilities, and so on), emotional barriers, and government and social pressures (e.g., governmental discouragement of exit out of concern for job loss).

79. Because the Internet lowers barriers to entry in most industries, it _____.

- A. decreases the threat of new entrants
- B. increases the threat of new entrants
- C. makes it easier to build customer loyalty
- D. increases supplier power

In most industries, the threat of new entrants has increased because digital and Internet-based technologies lower barriers to entry. Internet businesses may enjoy savings on traditional expenses which may encourage more entrants who see an opportunity to capture market share by offering a product or performing a service more efficiently than existing competitors.

- A. the final consumers in a distribution channel
- B. usually the C in B2C
- C. likely to have greater bargaining power because of the Internet
- D. the first customers in a distribution channel

End users are the final customers in a distribution channel. Sales activity that is labeled B2C is concerned with end users. The Internet is likely to increase the power of these buyers, in part because the Internet provides large amounts of consumer information.

81. Incumbent firms may enjoy increased bargaining power because the Internet _____.
- A. focuses marketing efforts on end users
 - B. diminishes the power of many distribution channel intermediaries
 - C. increases channel conflict
 - D. has reduced the number of wholesalers and distributors

In some industries, buyer channel intermediaries are dominated by powerful players that control who gains access to the latest goods or the best merchandise. The Internet and wireless communications, however, make it much easier and less expensive for businesses to reach customers directly. Thus, the Internet may increase the power of incumbent firms relative to that of traditional buyer channels.

82. Supplier power has increased because of the Internet for all of the following reasons EXCEPT:

- A. the growth of new Web-based businesses has created more outlets for suppliers to sell to
- B. some suppliers have created Web-based purchasing systems that encourage switching
- C. the process of disintermediation makes it possible for some suppliers to reach end users directly
- D. software that links buyers to a supplier's website has created rapid, low-cost order capabilities

Several factors contribute to stronger supplier power. First, Web-based business may create more downstream outlets for suppliers to sell to. Second, Web-based purchasing arrangements make purchasing easier and discourage customers from switching. Online procurement systems directly link suppliers and customers, reducing transaction costs and paperwork. Third, the use of proprietary software that links buyers to a supplier website may create a rapid, low-cost ordering capability that discourages the buyer from seeking other sources of supply. Finally, suppliers will have greater power to the extent that they can reach end users directly without intermediaries.

- A. introduces new ways to accomplish the same task
- B. lowers switching costs
- C. lowers barriers to entry
- D. increases output per unit of cost

Along with traditional marketplaces, the Internet has created a new marketplace and a new channel. In general, therefore, the threat of substitutes is heightened because the Internet introduces new ways to accomplish the same tasks.

- A. by shifting customers away from issues of price
- B. by making competitors in cyberspace seem less equally balanced
- C. by consolidating the marketing message that consumers use to make a purchase decision to a few key pieces of information that the selling company has little control over
- D. by highlighting unique selling advantages of a firm

Some shopping infomediaries, such as CNET, not only search for the lowest prices on many different products but also rank the customer service quality of different sites that sell similarly priced items. They increase rivalry by consolidating the marketing message that consumers use to make a purchase decision into a few key pieces of information over which the selling company has little control.

A. extends the value chain analysis

B. is a way to analyze all the players in a game and analyze how their interactions affect the ability of a firm to generate and appropriate value

C. helps us to understand the evolution of the five forces over time

D. uses network analysis to understand the relationships among different companies

Based on game-theoretic considerations, Brandenburger and Nalebuff recently introduced the concept of the value net, which in many ways is an extension of the five-forces analysis. The value net represents all the players in the game and analyzes how their interactions affect a firm's ability to generate and appropriate value.

- C. Strategic groups help chart the future directions of firm strategies.
- D. Strategic groups are helpful in thinking through the implications of each industry trend for the group as a whole.

In an industry analysis, two assumptions are unassailable: (1) no two firms are totally different, and (2) no two firms are exactly the same. What value is the strategic group concept as an analytical tool? First, strategic groupings help a firm identify barriers to mobility that protect a group from attacks by other groups. They also help chart the future directions of firm strategies and are helpful in thinking through the implications of each industry trend for the strategic group as a whole.
