Chapter 2 Analyzing the External Environment of the Firm: Creating Competitive Advantages

1) Environmental scanning and competitor intelligence provide important inputs for forecasting activities.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Three important processes (scanning, monitoring, and gathering competitive intelligence) are used to develop forecasts.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-01 The importance of developing forecasts of the business environment.

2) Perceptual acuity, according to Ram Charan, is the ability to know for certain what will happen in the future.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Ram Charan defines perceptual acuity as the ability to sense what is coming before the fog clears.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-01 The importance of developing forecasts of the business environment.

3) Ted Turner saw the potential of 24-hour news before anyone else. This is an example of perceptual acuity.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Ram Charan defines perceptual acuity as the ability to sense what is coming before the fog clears. Turner saw the potential of 24-hour news before anyone else did. All the ingredients were there, but no others connected them until he created CNN.

4) Environmental monitoring deals with tracking changes in environmental trends that are often uncovered during the environmental scanning process.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Environmental monitoring tracks the evolution of environmental trends, sequences of events, or streams of activities.

Difficulty: 1 Easy

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-02 Why environmental scanning, environmental monitoring, and collecting competitive intelligence are critical inputs to forecasting.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Analytical Thinking

5) Competitive Intelligence (CI) is a tool that can provide management with early warnings about both threats and opportunities.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Competitive intelligence (CI) helps firms define and understand their industry and identify strengths and weaknesses of rivals. Done properly, competitive intelligence helps a company avoid surprises by anticipating competitor moves and decreasing response time.

Difficulty: 1 Easy

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-02 Why environmental scanning, environmental monitoring, and collecting competitive intelligence are critical inputs to forecasting.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Knowledge Application

Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation

6) Competitive intelligence generally does not benefit very much from gathering information on competitors from sources in the public domain.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Competitive intelligence is frequently done effectively through public sources of information. Examples are evident in daily newspapers and periodicals such as The Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg Businessweek, and Fortune. For example, banks continually track home loan, auto loan, and certificate of deposit (CD) interest rates charged by rivals. Major airlines change hundreds of fares daily in response to competitor tactics.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

7) Even with all the advances in recent years, forecasting is typically considered more of an art than a science and it is of little use in generating accurate predictions.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Environmental forecasting involves the development of plausible projections about the direction, scope, speed, and intensity of environmental change. Its purpose is to predict change.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-02 Why environmental scanning, environmental monitoring, and collecting competitive intelligence are critical inputs to forecasting.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Analytical Thinking

8) Scenario analysis is a superficial approach to forecasting that seeks to explore possible developments that many only be connected to the past.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Scenario analysis is a more in-depth approach to forecasting. It draws on a range of disciplines and interests, among them economics, psychology, sociology, and demographics. It does not rely on extrapolation of historical trends. Rather, it seeks to explore possible developments that may only be connected to the past.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-03 Why scenario planning is a useful technique for firms competing in industries characterized by unpredictability and change.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Knowledge Application

Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation

9) SWOT analysis is useful in part because it obliges the firm to act proactively by putting an emphasis on identifying opportunities and threats that constrain the action choices a firm might make because of its internal and external environmental scan.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Despite its apparent simplicity, the SWOT approach has been very popular. First, it forces managers to consider both internal and external factors simultaneously. Second, its emphasis on identifying opportunities and threats makes firms act proactively rather than reactively. Third, it raises awareness about the role of strategy in creating a match between the environmental conditions and the internal strengths and weaknesses of the firm.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Learning Objective: 02-03 Why scenario planning is a useful technique for firms competing in industries characterized by unpredictability and change.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Analytical Thinking

Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation

10) In the SWOT framework, the Strengths and Weaknesses are external environmental factors to consider.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: The Strengths and Weaknesses refer to the internal conditions of the firm in which a firm excels (strengths) and where it may be lacking relative to competitors (weaknesses).

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: SWOT Analysis

Learning Objective: 02-03 Why scenario planning is a useful technique for firms competing in industries characterized by unpredictability and change.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Knowledge Application

Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation

11) In the SWOT framework, Opportunities and Threats are environmental conditions internal to the firm.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Opportunities and Threats are environmental conditions external to the firm. These could be factors in either the general or the competitive environment.

12) Although changes in the general environment may often adversely or favorably impact a firm, they seldom alter an entire industry.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: The general environment is composed of factors that can have dramatic effects on firm strategy.

13) A major sociocultural trend in the United States is the increased number of women in the workforce that has increased the need for business clothing but decreased the demand for baking product staples.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: The increased number of women in the workforce has increased the need for business-clothing merchandise but decreased the demand for baking product staples (because people would have less time to cook from scratch).

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Understanding a Firm's External Environment

Learning Objective: 02-04 The impact of the general environment on a firm's strategies and performance.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Analytical Thinking

14) Technological innovations can create entirely new industries and alter the boundaries of industries.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: Developments in technology lead to new products and services and improve how they are produced and delivered to the end user. Innovations can create entirely new industries and alter the boundaries of existing industries.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

15) The Porter five-forces model is designed to help us understand how social attitudes and cultural values impact U.S. businesses.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: The five-forces model developed by Michael E. Porter has been the most commonly used analytical tool for examining the competitive environment. It describes the competitive environment in terms of five basic competitive forces.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Five Forces Model of Industry Attractiveness

Learning Objective: 02-05 How forces in the competitive environment can affect profitability, and how a firm can improve its competitive position by increasing its power vis-à-vis these forces.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Knowledge Application

16) The five-forces model helps to determine both the nature of competition in an industry and the profit potential for the industry.

Answer: TRUE

Explanation: The five-forces model developed by Michael E. Porter describes the competitive environment in terms of five basic competitive forces that affect the ability of a firm to compete in a given market. Together, they determine the profit potential for a particular industry.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

17) In some industries, low switching costs can act as an important barrier to entry.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: A barrier to entry is created by the existence of one-time costs that the buyer faces when switching from one supplier product or service to another.

Difficulty: 2 Medium

Topic: Five Forces Model of Industry Attractiveness

Learning Objective: 02-05 How forces in the competitive environment can affect profitability, and how a firm can improve its competitive position by increasing its power vis-à-vis these forces.

Bloom's: Understand

AACSB: Analytical Thinking

Accessibility: Keyboard Navigation

18) In most industries, new entrants will not be a threat because the Internet lowers entry barriers.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: In most industries, the threat of new entrants has increased because digital and Internet-based technologies lower barriers to entry. For example, businesses that reach customers primarily through the Internet may enjoy savings on other traditional expenses such as office rent, sales-force salaries, printing, and postage. This may encourage more entrants who, because of the lower start-up expenses, see an opportunity to capture market share by offering a product or performing a service more efficiently than existing competitors. Thus, a new cyber entrant can use the savings provided by the Internet to charge lower prices and compete on price despite the incumbent's scale advantages.

19) The Internet and digital technologies suppress the bargaining power of buyers by providing them with more information to make buying decisions.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: The Internet and wireless technologies may increase buyer power by providing consumers with more information to make buying decisions and by lowering switching costs.

20) Reintermediation is responsible for an overall reduction in business opportunities.

Answer: FALSE

Explanation: Just as the Internet is eliminating some business functions, it is creating an opening for new functions. These new activities are entering the value chain by a process known as reintermediation.

21) Two of the key inputs to developing forecasts discussed in the text are

A) environmental scanning and stakeholder identification.

B) assessing internal strengths and environmental scanning.

C) environmental scanning and competitive intelligence.

D) environmental scanning and a SWOT analysis.

Answer: C

Explanation: Three important processes (scanning, monitoring, and gathering competitive intelligence) are used to develop forecasts.

- A) vision statement evaluation.
  - B) assessing internal strengths.
  - C) environmental scanning.
  - D) mission statement evaluation.

Answer: C

Explanation: Analyzing the external environment is a critical step in recognizing and understanding the opportunities and threats that organizations face.

- 23) Environmental analysis requires continual questioning of all these assumptions except
- A) a priori ideas about the structure of the relevant industry.
  - B) continual updating of environmental knowledge.
  - C) presuppositions about who is and is not a competitor.
  - D) biases about how to make money in the industry.

Answer: B

Explanation: According to Hamel and Prahalad, every manager carries around in his or her head a set of biases, assumptions, and presuppositions about the structure of the relevant industry, about how one makes money in the industry, about who the competition is and is not, about who the customers are and are not, and so on. Environmental analysis requires you to continually question such assumptions.

- 24) Firms that were successful in the past can fail today because
- A) they keep pace with changes in the nature of competition.
  - B) the company strategy is outdated.
  - C) their financial situation is resilient.
  - D) management monitors the relevant environmental factors regularly.

Answer: B

Explanation: The strategy of the firm may be good at one point in time, but it may go astray when the management frame of reference gets out of touch with the realities of the actual business situation. This situation results when management assumptions, premises, or beliefs are incorrect or when internal inconsistencies among them render the overall theory of the business invalid.

- 25) Which one of the following statements is an example of how to improve perceptual acuity?
- A) A CEO meets with other CEOs of non-competing companies to examine the world from multiple perspectives and then shares the results with his own management team.
  - B) A CEO meets with the company management team regularly to analyze current world events and their potential impact on the company.
  - C) A CEO meets with direct competitors to analyze current industry trends. The CEOs share their conclusions with their respective companies.
  - D) Outsiders are brought in to the board meeting to critique the company strategy, which considers the new information in its potential revamping of the strategy.

Answer: C

Explanation: Although many CEOs may complain that the top job is a lonely one, they cannot do it effectively by sitting alone in their office. Instead, high-performing CEOs are constantly meeting with people and searching out information.

- A) an ability to sense what is coming.
  - B) the ability to detect early warning signals of environmental changes.
  - C) a refusal to consult with others.
  - D) a strong commitment to external environmental monitoring.

Answer: C

Explanation: The best CEOs are compulsively tuned to the external environment and seem to have a sixth sense that picks up anomalies and detects early warning signals which may represent key threats or opportunities. Although many CEOs may complain that the top job is a lonely one, they cannot do it effectively by sitting alone in their office. Instead, high-performing CEOs are constantly meeting with people and searching out information.

29) Boards of directors use outsiders to critique their strategy. This is necessary mostly to improve

- A) financial returns.
- B) organizational hierarchy.
- C) perceptual acuity.
- D) employee relations.

Answer: C

Explanation: To improve perceptual acuity, two companies ask outsiders to critique strategy during their board strategy sessions. Such input typically leads to spirited discussions that provide valued input on the hinge assumptions and options that are under consideration. Once, the focus was on pinpointing the risk inherent in a certain strategy. Now, discussions have led to finding that the company was missing a valuable opportunity.

- A) Management perceptual acuity improves.
- B) Management gets across-the-board raises.
- C) The company business strategy no longer works.
- D) It becomes easier to maintain competitive advantage.

Answer: C

Explanation: A company strategy may be good at one point in time, but it may go astray when the management frame of reference gets out of touch with the realities of the actual business situation. This situation results when management assumptions, premises, or beliefs are incorrect or when internal inconsistencies among them render the overall theory of the business invalid.

- A) permit companies to discuss larger marketplace trends.
- B) guarantee positive consumer response to new products.
- C) give companies an opportunity to look beyond their own industries.
- D) oblige management to automatically change strategy.

Answer: B

Explanation: According to Ram Charan, an adviser to many Fortune 500 CEOs, improving perceptual acuity is an advantage that one CEO finds from getting together with his critical people for half a day every eight weeks to discuss what is new and what is going on in the world. The setting is informal, and outsiders often attend. The participants look beyond the lens of their industry because some trends that affect one industry may impact others later on.

32) Why must successful managers recognize opportunities and threats in their company external environment?

- A) If they miscalculate the market, opportunities will be lost.
- B) If they misread the market, they are likely to become rich.
- C) If they identify all of the environmental threats, they are guaranteed to acquire large market share.
- D) If they identify all of the environmental opportunities, they are guaranteed to acquire large market share.

Answer: A

Explanation: Successful managers must recognize opportunities and threats in their company external environment. They must be aware of what is going on outside their company. If they focus exclusively on the efficiency of internal operations, the firm may degenerate into the most efficient producer of buggy whips, typewriters, or carbon paper. But if they miscalculate the market, opportunities will be lost.

- A) resulting in an alignment with the company culture.
- B) resulting in an alignment with the customer base interests.
- C) resulting in conflicts with the customer base and the corporate culture.
- D) resulting in an alignment with the wholesome style brand of the company.

Answer: C

Explanation: One could attribute much of the failure of the tenure of Ms. Marchionni as CEO at Lands' End to her efforts to re-invent the apparel brand in a way that was in conflict with both its customer base as well as the family culture of the firm and wholesome style-as we discussed in in the opening case in Chapter 1.

34) _____ tracks the evolution of environmental trends, sequences of events, or streams of activities.

- A) Environmental scanning
- B) Environmental monitoring
- C) Environmental surveying
- D) Competitive intelligence

Answer: B

Explanation: Environmental monitoring tracks the evolution of environmental trends, sequences of events, or streams of activities. Monitoring enables firms to evaluate how dramatically environmental trends are changing the competitive landscape.

35) Companies that are able to spot key trends in the environment know their business and most importantly know their

- A) suppliers.
- B) employees.
- C) customers.
- D) competitors.

Answer: C

Explanation: Experts agree that spotting key trends requires a combination of knowing your business and your customer as well as keeping an eye on what's happening around you. Such a big-picture/small-picture view enables you to better identify the emerging trends that will affect your business.

- 36) Scanning the general environment would identify information on
- A) substitute goods.
  - B) customer and firm bargaining power.
  - C) the aging population and ethnic shifts.
  - D) competitive rivalry.

Answer: C

Explanation: Environmental scanning involves surveillance of the external environment of a firm to predict environmental changes and detect changes already under way. This alerts the organization to critical trends and events before changes develop a discernible pattern and before competitors recognize them.

- A) banks tracking home loans
  - B) airlines changing hundreds of fares daily in response to competitor tactics
  - C) consumers comparing product offers online
  - D) car manufacturers offering sales incentives based on rival offers

Answer: C

Explanation: Corporate competitive intelligence is the activity of collecting and interpreting data on competitors, defining and understanding the industry, and identifying competitor strengths and weaknesses in order to avoid surprises by anticipating competitor moves and decreasing response time.

38) Gathering competitive intelligence

- A) is illegal.
- B) is good business practice.
- C) is considered unethical.
- D) minimizes the need to obtain information in the public domain.

- A) indicators of emerging trends.
  - B) accidental changes in behavior.
  - C) supplier preferences.
  - D) company management trends.

Answer: A

Explanation: Leading firms in an industry can also be a key indicator of emerging trends. For example, with its wide range of household goods, Procter & Gamble is a barometer for consumer spending. Any sign that it can sell more of its premium products without cutting prices sharply indicates that shoppers may finally be becoming less sensitive to pricing with everyday purchases. In particular, investors will examine the performance of beauty products like Olay moisturizers and CoverGirl cosmetics for evidence that spending on small, discretionary pick-me-ups is improving.

- A) Slideshare
  - B) Quora
  - C) Duolingo
  - D) YouTube

Answer: C

Explanation: Keeping track of competitors has become easier today with the amount of information that is available on the Internet. The following are examples of some websites that companies routinely use for competitive intelligence gathering: Slideshare, Quora, Ispionage, YouTube. Duolingo is a language-learning website.

- A) competitors; customers
- B) customers; competitors
- C) traditional competitors; new competitors
- D) existing customers; existing competitors

Answer: C

Explanation: A word of caution: Executives must be careful to avoid spending so much time and effort tracking the actions of traditional competitors that they ignore new competitors. Further, broad environmental changes and events may have a dramatic impact on company viability.

43) Banks and airlines are examples of two industries that track competitor offers continually. This is called the process of gathering

- A) consumer responses.
- B) competitive intelligence.
- C) past decisions.
- D) mainline information.

Answer: B

Explanation: Competitive intelligence is the activity of collecting and interpreting data on competitors, defining and understanding the industry, and identifying competitor strengths and weaknesses. Banks continually track home loan, auto loan, and certificate of deposit (CD) interest rates charged by rivals. Major airlines change hundreds of fares daily in response to competitors' tactics.

- A) Have I done anything that coerced somebody to share this information?
  - B) Have I done something to circumvent a system intended to secure or protect information?
  - C) Is the contemplated technique for gathering information relevant?
  - D) Have I misled anybody in order to gain access?

Answer: C

Explanation: The Code of Ethics Guide on Competitive Intelligence at United Technologies encourages managers and workers to ask themselves these five questions whenever they have ethical concerns. Collecting relevant information is not an ethical concern; however, this is a concern if the contemplated technique for gathering information is invasive.

45) In 1977, Kenneth H. Olsen, then president of Digital Equipment Corp., announced that there was no reason for individuals to have a computer in their home. Long since disproven, this is an example of

- A) poor forecasting of future consumer demand.
- B) overestimation of uncertainty.
- C) excellent forecasting.
- D) good prediction skills.

Answer: A

Explanation: In 1977, one of the colossal underestimations in business history occurred when Kenneth H. Olsen, president of Digital Equipment Corp., announced that there was no reason for individuals to have a computer in their home. The explosion in the personal computer market was not easy to detect in 1977, but it was clearly within the range of possibilities at the time.

- 46) It is important to question the reliability of forecasts because
- A) if predictions are too low, a company like Motel 6 might build too many units and thus have a surplus of capacity.
  - B) uncertainty is black and white, and therefore the gray areas are unimportant.
  - C) underestimating uncertainty can lead to good competitive strategies.
  - D) the growth new industries, such as that of telecommunications, cannot be predicted.

Answer: A

Explanation: Some forecasting issues are much more specific to a particular firm and the industry in which it competes. Consider how important it is for Motel 6 to predict future indicators, such as the number of rooms, in the budget segment of the industry. If its predictions are low, it will build too many units, creating a surplus of room capacity that would drive down room rates.

- 47) A danger of forecasting discussed in the text is that
- A) in most cases, the expense of collecting the necessary data exceeds the benefit.
  - B) the retrospective nature of forecasting provides little information about the future.
  - C) it can create legal problems for the firm if regulators discover the company is making forecasts.
  - D) managers may view uncertainty as black and white while ignoring important gray areas.

Answer: D

Explanation: A danger of forecasting is that managers may view uncertainty as black and white and ignore important gray areas. The problem is that underestimating uncertainty can lead to strategies that neither defend against threats nor take advantage of opportunities.

48) PPG Industries, the Pittsburgh-based manufacturer of paints, coatings, optical products, specialty materials, chemicals, glass, and fiber glass suffered serious failures in 1986 and 1987 when it attempted to diversify its offers. It used a technique to help it identify possible future strategies. What was it?

- A) crowdsourcing
- B) competitive intelligence
- C) scenario analysis
- D) monitoring

Answer: C

Explanation: Scenario analysis is a more in-depth approach to forecasting. It draws on a range of disciplines and interests, among them economics, psychology, sociology, and demographics. It usually begins with a discussion of participant thoughts on ways in which societal trends, economics, politics, and technology may affect an issue. Developing strategies based on possible future scenarios seems to be paying off for PPG Industries. The company currently boasts a return on equity of 19.1 percent, and its stock had a total return of over 43 percent over the most recent 52-week period.

49) SWOT analysis is a framework for analyzing the internal and external environment of a company. It consists of strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. According to a SWOT analysis, which of the following is not an aspect that the strategy of the firm must follow?

- A) build on its weaknesses
- B) remedy the weaknesses or work around them
- C) take advantage of the opportunities presented by the environment
- D) protect the firm from the threats

Answer: A

Explanation: The general idea of SWOT analysis is that company strategy must build on its strengths, remedy its weaknesses or work around them, take advantage of the opportunities presented by the environment, and protect the firm from the threats. Despite its apparent simplicity, the SWOT approach has been very popular. First, it forces managers to consider both internal and external factors simultaneously. Second, its emphasis on identifying opportunities and threats makes firms act proactively rather than reactively. Third, it raises awareness about the role of strategy in creating a match between the environmental conditions and the firm's internal strengths and weaknesses. Finally, its conceptual simplicity is achieved without sacrificing analytical rigor.

- A) strengths and weaknesses
- B) strengths and opportunities
- C) weaknesses and threats
- D) opportunities and threats

Answer: D

Explanation: Opportunities and threats are environmental conditions external to the firm. These could be factors in either the general or the competitive environment. In the general environment, one might experience developments that are beneficial for most companies, such as improving economic conditions that lower borrowing costs, or trends that benefit some companies and harm others.

- A) character and ability
- B) intuition and judgment
- C) training and experience
- D) imagination and training

Answer: B

Explanation: While analysis is necessary, it is also equally important to recognize the role played by intuition and judgment. Steve Jobs, the legendary former chairman of Apple, took a very different approach in determining what customers really wanted. Jobs relied on his own intuition, his radar-like feel for emerging technologies and how they could be brought together to create insanely great products that ultimately made the difference. 73) Which is considered a force in the five-forces model?

- A) increased deregulation in an industry
- B) the threat of government intervention
- C) recent technological innovation
- D) rivalry among competing firms

Answer: D

74) Airbnb, a room-sharing site, offers more rooms than Marriott. Goldman Sachs suggests that the supply of new rooms over the next two years will outpace the previous five even though the growth of American occupancy rates has begun to slow. Which competitive force is involved in this situation?

- A) the threat of favorable government policies
- B) the threat of new buyers
- C) the threat of new entrants
- D) the threat of proprietary products

Answer: C

Explanation: The threat of new entrants refers to the possibility that the profits of established firms in the industry may be eroded by new competitors. The extent of the threat depends on existing barriers to entry and the combined reactions from existing competitors. If entry barriers are high and/or the newcomer can anticipate a sharp retaliation from established competitors, the threat of entry is low. These circumstances discourage new competitors.

- B) a competitor to your product where a high switching cost exists
- C) a firm that produces substitute goods to your product line
- D) a firm in the same industry and in the nearest strategic group looking to join your group

Answer: B

Explanation: The competitive threat of intense rivalry can result from lack of differentiation or switching costs. When switching costs are high, this threat is lowered.

  - B) incumbents will take legal action if new entrants do not differentiate their products.
  - C) it helps a firm to derive greater economies of scale.
  - D) new entrants will have to spend heavily to overcome existing customer loyalties.

Answer: A

Explanation: A supplier group will be powerful when the supplier group is dominated by a few companies and is more concentrated (few firms dominate the industry) than the industry it sells to; the industry is not an important customer of the supplier group; the supplier group products are differentiated or it has built up switching costs for the buyer; or the supplier group poses a credible threat of forward integration.

- A) threat of entry.
  - B) backward integration.
  - C) threat of substitute products.
  - D) forward integration.

Answer: C

Explanation: Identifying substitute products involves searching for other products or services that can perform the same function as the industry's offerings. This may lead a manager into businesses seemingly far removed from the industry. For example, the airline industry might not consider video cameras much of a threat. But as digital technology has improved and wireless and other forms of telecommunication have become more efficient, teleconferencing has become a viable substitute for business travel.

- B) increases supplier power.
- C) makes it easier to build customer loyalty.
- D) increases the threat of new entrants.

Answer: D

Explanation: In most industries, the threat of new entrants has increased because digital and Internet-based technologies lower barriers to entry. Internet businesses may enjoy savings on traditional expenses which may encourage more entrants who see an opportunity to capture market share by offering a product or performing a service more efficiently than existing competitors.

- 87) Apple uses its _____ power to pay no more than 2 percent of its sales a square foot in rent.
- A) supplier
  - B) competitor
  - C) buyer
  - D) restraining

Answer: C

Explanation: Apple has used its buyer power to pay no more than 2 percent of its sales a square foot in rent. That compares very favorably with a typical tenant, which pays as much as 15 percent, according to industry executives. In addition to paying a lower percentage of sales for rent, Apple does not pay additional rent if their sales exceed a particular level—a luxury not afforded other retail tenants.

- A) the final consumers in a distribution channel.
  - B) the first customers in a distribution channel.
  - C) likely to have greater bargaining power because of the Internet.
  - D) usually the C in B2C.

Answer: B

Explanation: End users are the final customers in a distribution channel. Sales activity that is labeled B2C is concerned with end users. The Internet is likely to increase the power of these buyers, in part because the Internet provides large amounts of consumer information.

- 89) Incumbent firms may enjoy increased bargaining power because the Internet
- A) focuses marketing efforts on end users.
  - B) has reduced the number of wholesalers and distributors.
  - C) increases channel conflict.
  - D) diminishes the power of many distribution channel intermediaries.

Answer: D

Explanation: In some industries, buyer channel intermediaries are dominated by powerful players that control who gains access to the latest goods or the best merchandise. The Internet and wireless communications, however, make it much easier and less expensive for businesses to reach customers directly. Thus, the Internet may increase the power of incumbent firms relative to that of traditional buyer channels.

- 90) Supplier power has increased because of the Internet for all the following reasons except
- A) the growth of new web-based businesses has created more outlets for suppliers to sell to.
  - B) software that links buyers to a supplier's website has created rapid, low-cost order capabilities.
  - C) the process of disintermediation makes it possible for some suppliers to reach end users directly.
  - D) some suppliers have created web-based purchasing systems that encourage switching.

Answer: D

Explanation: Several factors contribute to stronger supplier power. First, web-based business may create more downstream outlets for suppliers to sell to. Second, web-based purchasing arrangements make purchasing easier and discourage customers from switching. Online procurement systems directly link suppliers and customers, reducing transaction costs and paperwork. Third, the use of proprietary software that links buyers to a supplier website may create a rapid, low-cost ordering capability that discourages the buyer from seeking other sources of supply. Finally, suppliers will have greater power to the extent that they can reach end users directly without intermediaries.

- A) lowers switching costs.
  - B) lowers barriers to entry.
  - C) introduces new ways to accomplish the same task.
  - D) increases output per unit of cost.

Answer: C

Explanation: Along with traditional marketplaces, the Internet has created a new marketplace and a new channel. In general, therefore, the threat of substitutes is heightened because the Internet introduces new ways to accomplish the same tasks.

- 92) How do infomediaries and consumer information websites increase the intensity of competitive rivalry?

- A) by shifting customers away from issues of price
- B) by consolidating the marketing message that consumers use to make a purchase decision
- C) by making competitors in cyberspace seem less equally balanced
- D) by highlighting unique selling advantages of a firm

Answer: B

Explanation: Some shopping infomediaries, such as CNET, not only search for the lowest prices on many different products but also rank the customer service quality of different sites that sell similarly priced items. They increase rivalry by consolidating the marketing message that consumers use to make a purchase decision into a few key pieces of information over which the selling company has little control.

  - B) uses network analysis to understand the relationships among different companies.
  - C) helps us to understand the evolution of the five forces over time.
  - D) is a way to analyze how the interactions of all the players in a game affect the firm.

Answer: D

Explanation: Based on game-theoretic considerations, Brandenburger and Nalebuff recently introduced the concept of the value net, which in many ways is an extension of the five-forces analysis. The value net represents all the players in the game and analyzes how their interactions affect company ability to generate and appropriate value.

  - B) firms that produce products that have a positive impact on company product value.
  - C) customers who compliment the company for their good products and services.
  - D) firms that supply critical inputs to a company.

Answer: B

Explanation: Complements typically are products or services that have a potential impact on the value of the products or services of that company. Those who produce complements are usually referred to as complementors. Powerful hardware is of no value to a user unless there is software that runs on it.

- A) substitute
- B) complement
- C) unrelated
- D) differentiated

Answer: B

Explanation: The success of Nintendo in the early 1990s was a result of its ability to manage its relationship with its complementors. Nintendo built a security chip into the hardware and then licensed the right to develop games to outside firms. These firms paid a royalty to Nintendo for each copy of the game sold. The royalty revenue enabled Nintendo to sell game consoles at close to their cost, thereby increasing their market share, which, in turn, caused more games to be sold and more royalties to be generated.

- 97) Elements of the five forces can be quantified. This is important for analyzing industry structure. Which of the following is not an example of an element that can be quantified?
- A) the percentage of the buyer total cost accounted for by the industry product
  - B) the percentage of industry sales required to fill a plant or operate a logistical network to efficient scale
  - C) the buyer switching cost
  - D) the governmental regulatory policy

Answer: D

Explanation: The point of industry analysis is not to declare the industry attractive or unattractive but to understand the underpinnings of competition and the root causes of profitability. As much as possible, analysts should look at industry structure quantitatively, rather than be satisfied with lists of qualitative factors. Many elements of five forces can be quantified: the percentage of the buyer total cost accounted for by the industry product (to understand buyer price sensitivity); the percentage of industry sales required to fill a plant or operate a logistical network to efficient scale (to help assess barriers to entry); and the buyer switching cost (determining the inducement an entrant or rival must offer customers).

99) Which of the following statements about strategic groups is false?

- A) Two assumptions are made: (1) no two firms are totally different, and (2) no two firms are exactly the same.
- B) Strategic groupings are of little help to a firm in assessing mobility barriers that protect a group from attacks by other groups.
- C) Strategic groups help chart the future directions of firm strategies.
- D) Strategic groups are helpful in thinking through the implications of each industry trend for the group as a whole.

Answer: B

Explanation: In an industry analysis, two assumptions are unassailable: (1) no two firms are totally different, and (2) no two firms are exactly the same. What value is the strategic group concept as an analytical tool? First, strategic groupings help a firm identify barriers to mobility that protect a group from attacks by other groups. They also help chart the future directions of firm strategies and are helpful in thinking through the implications of each industry trend for the strategic group as a whole.
